INTRODUCTION TO THE MAJOR
The Classical Civilizations major gives students a unique opportunity to explore Graeco-Roman antiquity in company with a small but diverse cohort of undergraduates and under the guidance of professors known both for cutting-edge scholarship and for their dedication to undergraduate teaching. The major is interdisciplinary and flexible, with four areas of concentration to choose from. Within this framework, students develop their own personalized program of study in close consultation with our administrative and faculty advisers.

STUDY OPTIONS IN CLASSICS
The motto of Berkeley Classics is “New Insights into an Ancient World.” Our classes invite you to discard your preconceptions and see the ancient world afresh.

- Minor in Classics or an ancient language—we offer the same level of advising and support.
- Many students studying Pre-Med or Law find Classics courses great prep for future study.
- Funding is available for summer fieldwork and research for students pursuing study of the classical world.

AMPLIFY YOUR MAJOR
- Participate in archaeological field work with a Classics professor.
- Learn research techniques by assisting a professor through a URAP position.
- Achieve a broader perspective on Classics through study abroad.
- Expand your knowledge of a Classical subject by pursuing honors in Classics.
- Publish your work in the Berkeley Undergraduate Journal of Classics.
