INTRODUCTION TO THE MAJOR

The Classics Department offers training in ancient Greek and Latin from the ground up, enabling students to encounter texts such as Homer’s Odyssey and Ovid’s Metamorphoses in their original form.

Students have three options: they can major in Greek, in Latin, or in Classical Languages (i.e. both). They contextualize their work in the languages and deepen their understanding of the literature by delving into Greek and Roman civilization (art, philosophy, religion, etc.), in classes led by professors known both for cutting-edge research and for their dedication to undergraduate teaching.

AMPLIFY YOUR MAJOR

• Achieve a broader perspective on Classics through study abroad.
• Begin your language study with the Greek or Latin Summer Workshop (funding available).
• Challenge yourself by pursuing honors in Classics.
• Publish your work in the Berkeley Undergraduate Journal of Classics.
• Learn research techniques by assisting a professor through a URAP position.

STUDY OPTIONS IN CLASSICS

The motto of Berkeley Classics is “New Insights into an Ancient World.” Classes invite you to discard preconceptions and see the ancient world afresh.

• Our language classes are small (ca. 5-15 students); upper division offerings are taught by professors.
• Our language majors open many doors; graduates have gone on to law school, medical school, computer science, finance, and teaching.
• The Classical Languages major provides preparation for graduate study in Classics, History, Philosophy, and other disciplines.
• Minor in Greek or Latin—we offer the same level of advising and support.

HOW TO USE THIS MAP

Use this map to help plan and guide your experience at UC Berkeley, including academic, co-curricular, and discovery opportunities. Everyone’s Berkeley experience is different and activities in this map are suggestions. Always consult with your advisors whenever possible for new opportunities and updates.
